Presented by Stage North Theatre Society

BecauseHeCan

by Arthur Kopit

Produced by Special Arrangement with Samuel French, Inc.

This intriguing, cautionary fairytale for the Information Age invites the audience to discover the power that digital information has over every aspect of our lives. Joseph and Joanne Elliot's lives are upset when a computer hacker exacts his revenge upon them for perceived wrongs they have inflicted on him. Two Federal agents investigate them for suspected cyber crimes that have come to light at the same time that they discover that their identities have been stolen and their reputations destroyed by the hacker.

Warning: This performance contains coarse language and adult content and is not suitable for younger audiences.
